

Tiran Jackson | Reborn Resilient

After living the “American dream” with his wife, Maleka, and their son, Cameron, Tiran Jackson’s life was more than just complete. It was perfect to a simple man, whose only desire was to provide for his family, while showering his marriage and their son with an overwhelming amount of love. Mr. Jackson’s career as an engineer was rapidly growing. And with his wife climbing the corporate ladder as an HR Executive, the Jackson’s were the envy of many who respected them and their devotion to each other.

Then tragedy struck. While vacationing in the Bahamas, a boat explosion claimed Maleka’s, and left Tiran severely injured. The love of his life was unexpectedly taken away from him, leaving him with a broken spirit, heart, mind, body, and soul.

Tiran Jackson has faced numerous obstacles in his inspirational journey to move on without the love of his life. And in doing so, has discovered his purpose, which is to encourage others to find strength and the resilience to persevere in the face of tragedy.
